CAMPUS WATCH, a project of the Middle East Forum, reviews and critiques Middle East studies in North America with an aim to improve them. The project mainly addresses five problems: analytical failure, mixing of politics with scholarship, intolerance of alternative views, apologetics, and the abuse of power over students. Campus Watch respects the freedom of speech of those it debates while insisting on freedom to comment on their words and deeds.

"It seems the professors are more vehement than the students. There comes a point when you wonder are you fostering a discussion or are you promoting an opinion you want students to embrace or even parrot?"

- Jack Morgan, an Amherst College sophomore, on antiwar faculty members.
