

Support The Institute For Research: Middle Eastern Policy, Inc.

Is it time for you to join with IRMEP in seeing America's values and interests reflected in U.S. foreign policies? Are you are disillusioned by endless wars, misguided foreign aid and chronic underdevelopment causing terrorism to emanate from the Middle East? Do you sense a dangerous influence of narrow political action committees (PACs) on the U.S. government? If you do, I invite you to become a member of one of the fastest growing foreign policy organizations in America!

September 11, 2001 Put Middle East Foreign Policy on the Map

Your tax deductible contribution today will ensure the continuation of IRMEP's mission to see a constructive and balanced American foreign policy in the Middle East that develops freedom, opportunity, prosperity and civil society in the region while protecting the U.S. homeland. As the events of September 11, 2001 proved, no American can now ignore the U.S. role in the Middle East, or leave it to narrow-minded special interests and esoteric think tanks to dictate how U.S. foreign aid is directed in the region. IRMEP provides research, analysis and recommendations that identify with true U.S. interests in the region.
